2. Mensural data provided by TID/NPIC on the best quality photography available revealed the structures on top of the cylindrical flanking structures in the electronics areas at the southwest and northwest complexes to be 30 feet high and 30 feet in diameter. This measurement should be considered approximate.

25X1D

No new objects or structures were discerned at the three ABM complexes. First photographic evidence of the demarcations from the curved buildings was noted on [REDACTED]. It cannot be determined whether their observability is related to the photography or their actual appearance due to the resolution problems involved in seeing images of [REDACTED]. All demarcations appear to be present by [REDACTED]

25X1D

The facility to the right and forward of the control building of the probable electronics facility appears to have been mounded over at the southwest complex. This would suggest its completion. The control building at the northwest site does not appear to have changed since [REDACTED]

25X1D

The status of construction at the northeast site appears to be of an early nature. However, it appears that construction has not advanced to any significant degree since [REDACTED]
